Living in the Wider World Knowledge Organiser

Belonging to a Community	Media Literacy and Digital Resilience	Money and Work
- There are different types of rules: - School rules like not shouting out, - Home rules like not touching the oven and - Outdoor rules such as not dropping litter. - We all have different needs, babies need lots of care, people with disabilities often need adaptations, very elderly people may need help with lifting or moving around. - We should care for people, animals and other living things such as trees and plants. - We should all care for the environment - we can do this by avoiding single use plastics and recycling!	- We use phones, Ipads and computers to access the internet - We use the internet to play games, find out information and contact people. - The internet has many benefits - socialising, keeping us occupied and helping us learn. - We must use the internet safely by only talking to people we know in person, using trusted sites and keeping our passwords safe.	- We all have different strengths, in and out of school. Some are good at reading, some are sporty, some are good at caring for others. - Different strengths and interests are needed to do different jobs - to be a nurse you need to be good at science and have a caring nature. To be a police officer you need to be fit and good at talking to people. - The people whose job it is to help us in the community include doctors, police officers, teachers, fire fighters. - There are many different jobs and types of work - office work, out-door work, working with animals, children or the elderly.
